4.7 Retreat Line Development Tool (U12 and younger age groups)

The retreat line development tool comes into play when the goalkeeper has the ball in his/her hands following a save or the ball has gone out of play for a goal kick. Opponents must retreat behind the retreat line, (which is equal to ½ field in 5v5 and 1/3 of the field of play in 7v7 and 9v9) until the ball is in play.

The ball is in play once it is touched by another attacking player, crosses the retreat line or leaves the field of play, whichever occurs first.

The goalkeeper in possession does not have to wait for the opposition to retreat and has the option to restart the game anytime; however, if the goalkeeper decides to restart the game before the defending team has time to retreat, the retreat line rule will become void for that play of the game (in the event of any mishaps from the goalkeeper).

The following diagrams show where the retreat line is positioned for the various game formats:

The diagram shows the location of the retreat line on the $\frac{1}{2}$ way line of a 5v5 game. You will see that the red team players have all retreated behind the retreat line as the GK has the ball.

The diagram shows the location of the retreat line on the $\frac{1}{3}$ rds of the field of a 7v7 game. You will see that the blue team players have all retreated behind the retreat line as the GK has the ball.

The diagram shows the location of the retreat line on the 1/3rds of the field of a 9v9 game. You will see that the blue team players have all retreated behind the retreat line as the GK has the ball.

4.8 Substitutions

1. U6 to U7: Substitutions are allowed at all times, with no limit.

4.9 Player Shortages
